Good Morning,

[Company] is always looking for new, innovative ways for employees to volunteer and give back to their community. We are proud to announce that we have partnered with Nepris, an online platform that will allow you to virtually connect with students in the classroom for skills-based volunteering opportunities.

Through this partnership, you can now virtually connect with students locally and across the country about everything from resumes and job skills to project management and financial literacy. These sessions are fully interactive - you can walk around facilities, evaluate projects, lead presentations, conduct demonstrations, and more!

To learn more and get started, please go ahead and sign up on Nepris. Whether you're able to volunteer once a year or once a week, we encourage you to try out this exciting new way to inspire the next generation of our workforce!
